MIXED ON SATCHELS. Four gold watches, several gold chains and a number of dismond rings, a'l valued at about $1,000, disappeared with city smoothness, together with a satchel that had been carried by M. F tey, jeweler, in New York, on Tuesday He went to a station of the New York Central Railroad to board a Bester bound train, carrying his satchel with him. When he entered the station he placed his satchel upon a seat next to the ticket office to purchase a ticket. When he returned to get his satchel hdiscovered that it had disappeared, but the other satchel was still on the seat Filey reported his loss to Policeman Neill Maher, of the east One Hundred and Twenty-fith street police station, who soon aft rward haw a man come into a side door in the station with a parchel in his hand, similar to that deather in his hand, similar to that deather to Felly as the oreshe had less sor but by Foley as the one he had los. Maher acc sted the man and askehim where he go! the satchel. "Why," said the man, "I got it home. It is mone." "What is in it?" asked the poincemsp. "My tools and lurch," re plied the man. "I'll show you. Why! i's locked. Mine has no lock." Maher applained the i untion to the man and ne went to the east One Hundred and Twenty first street police station, where te met Foley coming out. Foley recogn z d his preperty and grabbed it out of the stranger's tand. Both as catls were opened by Sergeant Dribney. One contained about $1000 w r h of j welry and the other some E ch man described his property, and bo h went away satisfied after their se che's had been restored to them by Diamy.
